

Economic Sociology Meets Economic Geography

A workshop sponsored by the Center on Organizational Innovation
Columbia University in the City of New York

February 23, 2012

509 Knox, 606 West 122 Street, New York

Welcome Josh Whitford and David Stark, co-organizers
1:00 p.m.

Panel 1 Damon Phillips (Columbia University, New York)
1:00 - 3:00 p.m. "Geography and the Long-Run Appeal of Early Jazz Recordings"
Moderated by Elena Krumova

Debbie Becher (Barnard College, New York)
"Government Legitimacy and Valuation: When Protecting Property's Values Means Taking Property Titles"

Koen Frenken (Eindhoven Technical University, Eindhoven)
"In the Loop: A Theoretical and Empirical Approach to Reciprocity Cycles in Directed Networks"

Panel 2 Josh Whitford (Columbia University, New York)
3:15 - 5:00 p.m. "When networks fail"
Moderated by Olivia Nicol

Gernot Grabher (Hafen City University, Hamburg)
"Distance as an Asset: Knowledge Production in Hybrid Virtual Networks"

Mathijs de Vaan, Balazs Vedres, and David Stark (Columbia University, New York)
"Disruptive Diversity and Recurring Cohesion: Assembling Creative Teams in the Video Game Industry, 1979-2009"

Panel Discussion Jamie Peck (University of British Columbia, Vancouver)
5:15 - 6:30 p.m. "Polanyi in the Pilbara"
Moderated by Josh Whitford Discussants: Koen Frenken, Gernot Grabher, and David Stark