

WHAT'S THE VALUE OF SAVING COSTS?

OPEN LECTURE

RETHINKING SCARCITY

UTE TELLMANN

In »Rethinking Scarcity« Ute Tellmann explores the cultural history of this central category for economic thought. Economic textbooks take scarcity to be a truism of everyday-life: »you can't always get what you want«. But this truism hides a cultural argument on futurity and affect.

Universität der Nachbarschaften
Hamburg - Wilhelmsburg

Monday, 26th of March 2013
06:30 pm

Research Initiative

LOW BUDGET URBANITY

funded by Forschungs- und
Wissenschaftsstiftung Hamburg and HCU

Ute Tellmann is a political theorist and sociologist working on the genealogy of liberal economy. She is currently assistant professor at the University of Hamburg.

This open lecture is part of the Early Career Lab
»What's the value of saving costs? The urban economics and politics of everyday saving Practices«
25th - 28th of March 2013

Universität der Nachbarschaften

Hamburg - Wilhelmsburg

Rotenhäuser Damm 30, 21107 Hamburg

